Joining GMP that day will be Einstein Exchange, Vanbex Ventures and Grit Capital who will donate cryptocurrency trading commissions.

Celebrities such as Canadian NHL players Barclay Goodrow of the San Jose Sharks and Ryan Murphy of the Minnesota Wild, together with Todd Shapiro of SiriusXM will join the GMP trading desk on the morning of June 6, 2018 to be part of the benevolent movement.

"We are very grateful to our clients and employees for generously partnering with us to make this year's charity trading day part of the solution to this serious problem," said Harris Fricker, President and Chief Executive Officer, GMP.

"We pride ourselves on bringing innovative strategies to charitable giving and corporate responsibility. We are pleased and honored to renew our collaboration with GMP Securities and to partner with one of Canada's fastest growing cryptocurrencies exchanges, Einstein Exchange, and one of Canada's most successful blockchain advisory firms Vanbex to host what we believe to be the first charity cryptocurrency trading day in history," said Genevieve Roch-Decter, Chief Executive Officer, Grit Capital and Vice-Chair of the Grand Commission.

The Grand Commission would also like to thank MODUS Ristorante and Bardi's Steak House for sponsoring the kickoff trading desk event and trading desk luncheon.

Deemed the Charitable Event of the Season, the Grand Commission is an extraordinary commemoration of generosity in the community. For additional detail, including sponsorship information and how to purchase tickets, please visit our website at www.thegrandcommission.com.
